Go(o)d Questions: Meaning of the Baptized Life

Speaker: Rev. Dr. Anna Madsen

Depending on the gospel text, the Holy Spirit either led, or chased, the newly baptized Jesus into the wilderness. Truth be told, depending on the day, we too feel either led or chased by the Spirit--sometimes into what might by all rights be called a wilderness.

There is room for good questions about the baptized life: What shapes it? What does it look like in your life and in your congregation and in your synod and in your small and broad context? What sustains it? In short, what difference does it make to be a baptized disciple of Jesus? Please come ready to explore these questions, and with your own to add to the mix.

Rev. Dr. Anna Madsen

Anna Madsen is a “freelance theologian” in Sioux Falls, South Dakota. After graduating from Trinity Lutheran Seminary, she served a small South Dakota parish for three years before earning a Ph.D. in systematic theology in Regensburg, Germany. Immediately prior to her return to begin teaching at Augustana College, an accident killed her husband and severely injured her young son Karl. Daughter Else was eight months old at the time. This event shaped her theology and her life profoundly, not least of all by being a springboard to create OMG: Center for Theological Conversation. OMG provides a place for individuals and groups, laity and clergy, to come for questions, conversation, and study. Through OMG, she also speaks, blogs and writes.

Karl is now 12, and daughter Else is now 10. Anna has remarried to Reynold Nesiba, a professor of economics at Augustana College. The family is deeply involved in church, politics, and social justice, and loves to cook, eat, read, and travel.
